PART II
NARRATIVE SUMMARY

During the month of January the 9th Marine Regiment continued offensive operations in the Northern I Corps Tactical Zone. From 2 January 1969 until 19 January 1969 during Operation DAWSON RIVER WEST this Regiment displaced to an area near the Laotian border west of the former KHE SANH Combat Base. Using teams from Third Reconnaissance Battalion to secure selected Landing Zones, thus eliminating the need for pre-H-Hour prep fires, the entire regiment plus supporting artillery made a simultaneous assault into multiple Landing Zones. The assault phase was completed in 3 hrs, 50 min. The rapid build up of combat strength was effective and allowed the maneuver elements to deploy immediately on landing, thus eliminating the danger of company size units being fixed by enemy artillery and mortars. Enemy contact during this operation was limited, with the primary result, the uncovering of numerous caches of artillery, rocket, and mortar rounds. In addition, a great quantity of U.S. equipment, rations, and ammunition was recovered or destroyed. The aformentioned was U.S. equipment lost during and after the sieges at LANG VEI and KHE SANH. This operation proved again that Marine Corps doctrine is applicable to this type warfare.

As the month of January ended the 9th Marines were deployed on Operation DEWEY CANYON which commenced on 20 January. 3rd Marine Division and XXIV Corps extended the southern boundary of the 9th Marine's AO to include the southern DA KRONG River Valley and the northern A SHAU Valley.

Initially, FSB's in the area to the north of the assigned AO were opened, allowing constant artillery coverage, as elements of the 9th Marines moved further south. As the operation progressed and the Regiment moved still further south, FSB's were moved forward allowing 9th Marine's manuever elements to operate within the eight kilometer fan of artillery support. The area of operation's main geographic character is one of high mountain plateaus, and dense jungle vegetation, with single and double canopy cover. The prime target in this AO is an enemy Main Supply Route coming out of Laos and crossing into the upper A SHAU Valley.

Enemy contact has been limited to small units and vehicular traffic on the Main Supply Route which has been interdicted repeatedly with B-52, TPQ, and artillery strikes.

The most significant find of the operation to date has been the uncovering and destruction of the NVA, 88th Field Hospital, with its equipment and supplies.

The 9th Marine Regiment CP displaced to the operational area on both operation DAWSON RIVER WEST and DEWEY CANYON, and as the month closes is located at a forward FSB.

13. Intelligence.

a. General. During the month of January, the 9th Marine Regiment completed one operation and commenced another in areas of QUANG TRI Province where no other major Free World Forces had operated. This operation, conducted in Western QUANG TRI Province along the Laotian border, resulted in the capture and destruction of numerous enemy caches and base camps.

c. Operation DEWEY CANYON. This operation, commencing on 22 Jan 69, was directed toward the suspected main infiltration route for Southern QUANG TRI Province, THUA THIEN Province and QUANG NAM Province just north of the A SHAU Valley along the DA KRONG River Valley. Vegetation West of the DaKrong River consists of elephant grass, brushwood and some forested areas. The vegetation to the East differs in that forest areas predominate and range from a single to triple canopy. Cultivated areas are scattered throughout becoming more prevalent in the southern portion of the objective area. The soil composition is of red clay affording good drainage throughout most of the area. The southern portion of the area is devoid of much of its natural vegetation, due to bombardment, will probably afford poor to fair drainage.
